

To our valued clients and community partners:

First and foremost, the health of our clients, our team and our community partners is most important. If anyone who will be attending a meeting in our office has any symptoms of upper respiratory illness or fever, we kindly ask that you postpone your meeting or reschedule for a later date. Also, if you have traveled outside of the US or been in contact with anyone who has tested positive for COVID-19, please also reschedule your appointment.

We are offering all appointments with our attorneys and team members by phone call, video conferencing or in person. For in office precautions, we are wiping down all handles, doors, toilets, tables before and after every meeting. We spray Lysol in the air before and after every meeting. We are asking everyone to not shake hands. We are asking everyone to frequently and vigorously wash your hands before and after you leave the building. Masks are optional for vaccinated individuals.

If you are meeting with someone in our office and you do not want to wait in the lobby, please call the office and let us know. You can remain in your car, and someone will get you when the conference room is open and will walk you directly there.

Any clients who want to attend an estate planning or crisis workshop will be offered a link to watch from home if they are not comfortable attending in our workshop room. For any clients who want to watch the workshops live in our office we are following the same precautions as listed above.

We continue to monitor developments and recommendations related to the pandemic closely. Please let us know if you have any questions or concerns.

Jeff Bellomo and Team